EUROPE.

THE STRUGGLE OVER THE IRISH CHURCH BILL. London, July 8 .- The Times has another editorial on the Irish Church bill to-day, in which it says: "The bill must become a law. This session of Parliament must destroy Prctestant supremacy and establish religious equality in Ireland, but not attempt to set up a multiplicity of establishments. If the ecclesiastical property of Ireland is to be put on a permanent footing, we must recognize these facts and apply so much of the surplus as may be necessary to supply homesteads for ministers of the whole people.

The Morning Star (Radical) says: "The British people have no right to indulge peers who would deprive them of the luxury of being just. Hardly one of the amendments to the bill agreed upon by the Lords can be tolerated by the country."

PROCEEDINGS OF PARLIAMENT. LONDON, July 9-Midnight.-In the House of Lords to night, the Irish Church bill came up for report from the committee. On motion of Lord Cairnes, the date "May 1, 1871," was substituted for "May 1, 1872," throughout the bill.

Lord Redesdale moved an amendment that representatives of the Irish Church and Catholic Synod, in cases of vacant bishoprics, nominate three persons for the Crown to select from, and that the Crown be empowered to summon one archbishop and three bishops from each church to sit in Parliament.

The Earl of Granville protested on the part of Catholics against the amendment, which he declared was utterly inadmissable, and it was withdrawa.

The Marquis of Clanricarde moved that clause 28, giving power to convey additional land to the Church body be restored to its original form. He said the clause, as now amended, revived Protestant ascendancy in the most hateful form, giving glebe lands to the Church body, but refusing them to Catholics and Presbyterians. It was certain the government and Commons would never sanction the amended clause.

The Marquis of Falisbury replied that in moving the amendment he con'emplated similar grants to Catholics and Presbyterians, according to Mr. Bright's original proposal, which Mr. Gladstone had endorsed; but he thought the retention of their own glebes by the Irish Church was not unfair.

After further discussion Earl Denbigh announced that the Catholics had decided not to accept glebe lands or residences. The motion to restore clause 23 was lost-40

The amendment embracing the proposal of Earl Granville to pay half a million sterling in money, instead of handing over private endowments created before 1660, was agreed to. The report of the bill was then received.

Earl Cluncarty gave notice that when the bill comes up for a third reading he will move its postponement for three months.

A BLOW AT THE LORDS.

The following letter has been circulated privately among known "Progressives:"

Sir-In view of the probable failure of the Irish Church bill, through the opposition of the House of Lords to the government, the Commons and the country, you are requested to inform the Secretary of the Reform League whether you are willing that your name shall be used, in the event of the defeat of that measure, to sign a public call for mass meetings to consider the best constitutional method of getting rid of this obstruction to legislation, based upon the expressed will of the people."

NEW YORK, July 9. - A special to the Herald dated Paris, July 8, says the political commotion in France continues. The Emperor has decided to give way to the Chambers, and change his system of government. He meets with great difficulties in his efforts to com plete the new combination, but the grand event is expected in the course of a week. The new ministry will emerge from the "Centre Gauche" party, between the Radical minority and the adherents of the Empire. The members of the "Centre Gauche" party are for the Empire, but insist upon the establ shment of a responsible ministry or Parliamentary Government, the same as exists in England.

The Peuple Francais, says the Deputies in the Corps Legislati! who are now signing an interpellation for political reforms, are members of the Tiers Parti and friends of the gov ernment. They do not want the Emperor to renounce his right of initiative, but ask him to allow the Chamber to share it. We believe the Emperor is not disposed to reject their demand. The situation is not disquieting. While one side is not disposed to make exag gerated claims, the other is equally resolved to make exaggerated resistance. The crists will determine in a compromise, which will satisfy public opinion.

Minister Rouher, in his reply yesterday to M. Favre, admitted that a ministerial crisis was spoken of, but the great question of changes which will powerfully affect institutions and society in the future, was bound up with the question of the barrier which must be raised against revolution. We know not when or by whom the agreement will be achieved, but we do know on what vital force the Chamber will rely to preserve society.

RESIGNATION OF THE MINISTRY. Paris, July 9 .- The evening journals as nounce the resignation of the ministers. It is believed Rouher has been commissoned to form a new Cabinet, which will include four methbers of the Tiers Parti. A manifesto from the Emperor is looked for.

Washington, July 10 .- The Cubans have the ollowing: Letters received from prominent Cuban officers via Nassau and Key West, bring dates to the 1st. The troops of the Spanish commander continue to execute all the prisoners immediately upon capture. Even those who are wounded are executed on the field. ### THE LAST DEFALCATION.

The Central National Bank Loses $100. 000-Circumstances of the Crime-History of Sanford, the Cashier.

Tee New York Sun, of Friday, says:

Mr. William H. Sanford, cashier of the Central National Bank of this city, is a defaulter to the bank in the amount of $100 000, and is a fugitive from justice, leaving behind him a name hitherto irreproachable, but now dis-graced for ever, and a young and interesting family wholly destitute.

CHARACTER OF THE DEFALCATION.

The defalcation consists in the appropria The defalcation consists in the appropriation of bonds and stocks sent to the bank by its country correspondents to—be hold for negotiation at their order. Such remittances pass into the custody of the cashier, and are held by him until orders are received for their sale, when the proceeds are placed to the credit of the correspondent. Frequently at the Central National Bank the cashier will have upwards of half a million of such securities in his hand, endorsed in blank and awaiting orders to sell. The amount so entrusted to him is seldom less than $50,000. Such securities are not entered upon the books of the bank, and the entered upon the books of the bank, and the amount of them on hand is known only to the cashier, whose honesty is the only guarantee for their safety. They are in his possession from the time of their receipt, until their conversion into money; and if that officer proves dishonest, as in this instance, there is no means of detecting him until inquiry is raised by the correspondents owning the securities.

CAREER OF THE DEFAULTER. Mr. Sanford was formerly a junior member of the dry goods jobbing house of Purdee, Bates & Co., which firm he left to assume Bates & Co., which firm he left to assume the position of assistant cashier of this bank. In this position he acquitted himself with much commendable uprightness, and displayed such unusual promptness, quickness, and general business tact, that on the reorganization of the bank force on the withdrawal of Mr. Henry A. Smythe, the former president, to assume the position of Collector of the Port of New York, Mr. Sanford was made cashier. In his new enlarged and Collector of the Port of New York, Mr. Sanford was made cashier. In his new, enlarged and more responsible position he continued to give the utmost satisfaction to the directors of the bink, all of whom placed the utmost confidence in him, and any of whom would have signed his bond at any time tor half a million of dollars. During the time he has been cashier he has frequently been trusted with unusual amounts of private funds, the president and directors between complements. president and directors having so much confidence in his integrity that they never hesitatad the custody of as much as $150,000 of his private means, which he could have disposed of at any time, and has been similarly frusted by individual directors, never in any instance giving occasion to those trusting him to question be because.

HIS DOMESTIC RELATIONS

He resided at first with his family in Connecticut, but finding it inconvenient to reach his business from that distance, he moved about two weeks up to Flushing, L. I., where he lived in a most frugal and unpretentious manner, giving the impression from all his domestic surrou dings of a raid care to live within his means. Some weeks since his family—a wife and two children—left Flushing to spend the summer months with Sanford's to spend the summer months with Sanford's mother at Westport, Connecticut, where they still remain.

Last week it became known to the president and other officers of the back that Sanford's youngest child was very sick. On Thursday, Sanforc seemed very gloomy and degranding youngest child was very sick. On Thursday, Sanforc seemed very gloomy and desponding, so much so as to attract the attention of the bank officials, who attributed his humor to anx ety regarding his child. The president finally went to him and advised him to go home. Sanford thought he could not get away; that there was no one that could take his place, &c. The president replied that it was his duty to go home to his sick child, and insisted that he should start at once. About half an hour afterward, the President noticed that he had gone. He has not since made his that he had gone. He has not since made his appearance at the bank.

THE DISCOVERY.

On Friday the fact was noticed and comment-On Friday the fact was noticed and commented on that he sent no word to the bank, and on Saturday, his continued absence and silence caused the president to dispatch a messenger to Connecticut in search of nim. The absentee's brother, a subordinate in the bank, was selected for this mission. On reaching Wes port, this young man was surprised and alarmed to learn that Sanford had not been heard of there. He at once telegraphed the fact back to the bank, causing not a little consterostion in that orderly insulation. An infact back to the bank, causing not a little com-sternation in that orderly institution. An in-vestigation was at once ordered. The cashier's box, in which were kept the funds intrusted to his care, was taken from the vault to the Presi-dent's room, and there opened by the latter officer. The first thing that struck his eye on opening the box was an envelope addressed to himself. This he quickly opened, and found a hastly-written note, traced with a trembling hand, without address, date or signature, reading as follows:

THE DEFAULTER'S PAREWELL.

"Forgive me for what I have done. I have taken nothing with me, and have left my family destitute. What is missing I have lost in speculation in stocks and gold. God bless my poor family !"

HIS WHEREABOUTS A MYSTERY. This note left no room for doubt as to the cashier's box and of memoranda and letters found among his papers showed that he had misappropriated about one hundred thousand dollars of securities, mostly United States coupon bonds endorsed in blank, and of course readily negotiable, and a small smount of express stock, similarly prepared for transfer. ALPHA AND OMEGA.

It has also been ascertained, greatly to the surprise of the president and directors, that for some months past Sanford has been dabbling heavily, though secretly, in stocks and gold, losing in all his ventures. The extent of this surprise may be imagined from the statement of the president that Sanford had not been known to visit Wall-street in three years, and no one connected with the bank had the slightest suspicion that he ever ergaged in any speculation. It has since transpired that he lost very heavily a few weeks ago in Mariposa stock, and it is supposed that he was then for the first time led to encroach upon the trusts confided to him in order to cover his losses. But once in the joils of the Wall-street gamblers, there seemed to be no hope for him; but struggling to recover himself, he only sunk deeper and deeper into the mire, until he was finally overwhelmed in ruin. Whether he has rashly ended his curreer in the cowardly death of a It has also been ascertained, greatly to the ed his career in the cowardly death of a suicide, or fled to a distant locality, is a matter of conjecture; the prevalent opinion being that he has gone overland to California.

THE DEFAULTER'S MANAGEMENT COMMENDED. The United States Bank Examiner for this State examined the books, accounts, vouchers, securities, and money of the bank late in June and found everything correct, the actual cash tallying to the requirements of the showing with a discrepancy of only four cents. This fluttering condition of their affairs had been an occasion of general congratulation among the occasion of general congratulation among the officials of the bank, and Sanford was especially commended by the president and directors for the perfect system and careful accuracy with which he managed their affairs.

SANFORD'S PERSONNEL.

The missing cashier is a young man, scarcely forty years of age, rather small stature, with a keen, sh arp eye, quick, and somewhat ner yous in his motions, very pleasant in his tone of voice, and a most agreeable companion. He carried on his speculations that have resulted in his ruin with his usual shrewdness, never venturing near the stock market himself, but quietly communicating by note with his bro-ers, sending his missives by a private messenger. These notes were usually sent late in the day, just in time to meet the closing transactions of the day. He has lost everything he is worth in addition to his defalcation to the bank, and leaves his young and interesting family wholly without means. SANFORD'S PERSONNEL.

Newberry.

A travelling correspondent of the Greenville Enterprise writes of the crops above and around Newberry: The crops of cotton and corn on the route generally, and in this neighborhood, look well. There is, however, a section below Ninety Six, and extending into Newberry, where dry weather has very much stunded the growth of everything, and where the crops look badly. In this same region, too, I saw some badly cultivated fields, and crops, apparently abandoned, that will make nothing. The wheat, which has all been cut, and much of it threshed out, has proven very good almost everywhere. I find there are steam threshers at work in divers places. I here met with three or four, and doubtless there are others at work in different parts. This is a great improvement on the horse power, and cheaper in the end. I was particularly gratified to hear of the success of some intelligent farmers in using the reaping machine, which has been introduced the present year in this county. Dr. Moses C. Taggart, of White Hall, is a great advocate for barley culture. He says he made 150 bushels on three acres of land. It is of great value—equal to corn or better to feed to stock, soaked or ground; and the barley in the winter and early spring growing on rich land, makes a fine pasture, or may be cut and fed green. The barley on well prebetter to feed to stock, soaked or ground; and the barley in the winter and early spring growing on rich land, makes a fine pasture, or may be cut and fed green. The barley on well prepared land is the most certain of all other crops. It is never injured by cold or wet or dry, nor by rust and mildew, like other grain. It makes itself earlier than any other crop, being the first to come to the relief of the farmer who lacks plenty. Everybody ought to cuntivate barley in this country, as a part of their crop; but it is no use to do so without enriching the land flist, and then it will surely pay. Dr. Taggart sells his this year for three dollars and fifty cents a bushel to a brewer in Columbia. It is to be cultivated into lager beer. Dr. Taggart uses the turning and subsoil plough freely in the preparation of his lands for various crops, especially for wheat and barley, and of course manures freely with the home-made and also the commercial, and finds it profitable to do so. He is not peculiar in these respects. Abbeville has many of the same sort of enlightened and orgressive planters. The dry weather is just beginning to affect the crops of this neighborhood, as yet not injuriously. The prospect is now for a good yield of cotton and little corn, for little is planted. Those who have planted and cultivated their corn will make a good crop with one or two mero raius in season.

G EORGIA

MUTUAL FIRE AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY.

HAVING FULLY ORGANIZED OUR COMPANY on a sure and permanent basis, an having the Comptroller's authority, we present to the Southern People what we believe to be one of the saigst and bes Life Insurance Companies ever established in the Fouthern Country. The Home Office is in Macon. Georgia, where every dollar invested will remain in our midst. The galaxy of names, given as directors and referees, is a sufficient guarantee of itself of the fidelity with which this institution will be managed. The capital is sufficient to meet all losses in every contingency. We earnestly appeal to our citizens everywhere to build up with us this structure for the benefit of our loved ones, our homes, and our

Hundreds of thousands of dollars are yearly abstracted from the pockets of our people, and carried to foreign pacts to enrich strangers who have but little sympathy for us.

Can we not learn wisdom and use our means to eprich ou selves and beautify our homes? We will try and place, in every locality, polite and efficient Agents to transact the business of the Company And we cordially invite all desiring agencies in this Company to call on the Officers, at the office building, near the Passenger Depot, in front of the two hotels, on Fourth-street, where all matters of detail will be cheerfully given. The profits will be entirely mutual after paying six per cent, to the Stockholders for amount of Stock guaranteed.
